Capt. William A. Beebe Passes On

Engraving by Gushul, Blairmore.

A long, varied and most useful career was brought to a close during the noon hour of Sunday last in the passing of Captain William Amasa Beebe, one of the most highly respected, and, no doubt, the oldest citizen of the Crows' Nest Pass, following an illness of several months.

The late Capt. Beebe was born at Oakland, Ontario, on September 27th, 1847, and had he lived to see that day of next month would have been 92 years of age. His father was a native of Scotland, his mother a Canadian. Both have passed on. His wife predeceased him forty-seven years ago.

Surviving are two sons, Frank, of Blairmore, and Jordan, of Cincinnati, Ohio; one daughter, Mrs. Howard R. Burr (Emma), Detroit; and a sister, Mrs. L. Anders, of Portland, Oregon; also two nieces, Mrs. R. E. Hutchinson, of Portland, and Mrs. G. J. Schindelte, of Saginaw, Michigan.

The Capt. Beebe came to Blairmore in 1900, but did not decide to settle down here till 1901, when he opened up Blairmore's first business establishment; and was later empowered by the government to lay out and plan what now constitutes the townsite of Blairmore. For a number of years following this he was official overseer of the village as well as secretary-treasurer of the school. For this dual office he received in the pay the paltry sum of fifty dollars per year. He carried on until the incorporation of the town, when he was elected member of both the town council and school board. For about twenty years he served as member of the school board, and during the same period served about six terms on the council and one term as mayor.

His history was remarkable. At about sixteen years he quit school and set out to seek his livelihood. He engaged in various occupations, including dredging, lumbering, deep sea fishing, ship's master, harbor tug master, etc., until he was influenced by the gold rush and followed the trail into the Yukon, following which he decided to locate in Blairmore immediately after the steel had been laid by the C.P.R. In 1871 Mr. Beebe married Miss Molly Holmes at Cairo, Michigan. Eight years after marriage he operated a fleet of fishing smacks at Bay City, and in 1884 started dredging at Port Arthur, later going to Georgian Bay. He returned to Port Arthur and re-entered the fish trade in 1893 with the Booth Packing Company as commander of their fleet. In '96 he resigned to join the Klondike rush. In fraternal circles he held a very enviable record, being a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows for no less than 71 years, and of the Masonic Order to within three months of 69 years. He was also connected with the Rebekah auxiliary and the Knights of Good Templars. He was honored by local Masons on the occasion of his fiftieth and sixtieth membership anniversaries.

Funeral service will be held in the Masonic Hall on Sunday afternoon next at 2:30, following which the remains will be laid to rest in the Blairmore Union cemetery.

He was also a most active curler, and was possessed with ability to at all times entertain with talks on the great game, especially at banquets. In both these spheres he will be most keenly missed. As a citizen of the district in general, he took an interest in and supported every worthy movement.

Centralization v. Decentralization

What is best for Canada—greater centralization of government than already exists or a larger measure of decentralization of administration?

The foregoing question is one which is occupying a good deal of attention in the minds of the people of this country. It is a question which has a great many facts and one in which there is room for a great deal of honest difference of opinion, one of the reasons why it is assuming a good deal of prominence.

It is also a question about which there is a good deal of loose thinking and consequently, loose talking. It is a problem, however, which should and must, be faced squarely, and about which no snap judgment should be rendered in the popular mind, since the whole future destiny of the country depends upon the answer.

In this country there are two schools of thought, representing divergent viewpoints and they are represented both in Eastern and Western Canada, with the general trend of thought in the former, as expressed in public print, inclined to support more centralization of power in Ottawa.

There are those who contend that Canada, with its federal government, its nine provincial governments, its multiplicity of rural and urban municipalities and numerous minor local authorities with their satellite boards and commissions is very much overgoverned for a country with a population of about eleven millions to support them and their tax levies. It is thought that if some of these governmental groups were abolished or curtailed in number with their jurisdiction wholly or partially transferred to the remaining governmental entities, it would result in better government at less cost. They argue, doubtless with some justification, that fewer governments in the field with power to exact taxation would result in less overspending, greater efficiency and greater economy, and would, therefore, help to relieve the taxpayers of some of the burden of which they now complain.

Decentralization Argument

On the other hand, the advocates of continuance of the status quo, or even an extension of decentralization maintain, also perhaps not without some justification, that greater centralization of authority would result in the building up of a bureaucracy which might, in the course of time, become dictatorial in its attitude towards the needs and aspirations of the common people; that long range government by remote control is impractical in a country of such vast geographic expanse and wide range of different economic conditions as Canada, because of the difficulty, if not impossibility of central government catering to local requirements and of taking into consideration local conditions. In short, it is undesirable because any curtailment of local self government, constitutes a weakening of the democratic form of government, on the ground that local self government is the keystone in the arch of democracy.

sofar as Western Canada is concerned, opponents of greater centralization of government further contend that if a greater measure of authority were vested in Ottawa, it would tend to militate against the interests of the west just so long as representation in the federal parliament and the voting power of the people in the east is greater than that of the west.

If the premises of both schools of thought can be accepted as fundamental and factual, the issue then boils itself down to this: Do the people of this country seek more efficient and more economical but perhaps less considerate government, or are they willing to pay the price of a full measure of freedom and of close access to those who represent them, together with the greater responsiveness to their demands and requests which naturally goes with accessibility?

United Canada Angle

Then, of course, there is the question of Canadian unity of thought and purpose—a question which looms prominently at a time when dictator nations constitute a threat to the continued existence of the democracies.

This, too, is a very important phase of the problem of centralization versus decentralized administration and one which cannot be overlooked when this question is under review. It is an issue born of the international as well as the national and local conditions which affect the present day and probably the future welfare of Canada.

What the concrete outcome of the discussions of this highly important and difficult problem will be, it is impossible to predict at this stage. That there will be some measure of realignment of authority and jurisdiction is to be expected. Perhaps some middle course will be found which will result in greater economy and efficiency throughout the entire structure of government without loss of any of the individual liberties and privilege of accessibility which the people of this country presently enjoy.

A question is one which the people of the country must ultimately determine for themselves and in view of its great importance it predicates the exercise of much care and thought if the right answer is to be given and the solution most beneficial to the people of the country as a whole is to be found and applied.

Light Filter Tested

Makes Headlights On Motor Cars Invisible From Air

A special filter, which makes driving without lights unnecessary in an air raid, underwent a successful test by A.R.P. officials at Brighton, Eng.

Official riding in an eight-seater plane altitude of 10,000 feet. When 2,000 feet over the Shoreham airport at night, tried in vain to detect the headlights of four cars below them.

The filter acts in such a way, it is said, that while sufficient light is given to drive by, no beam can be seen from above.

A Mistaken Tradition

Drowning Persons Can Sink More Than Three Times

"Two struggling girls, locked in each other's tight embrace, were rescued from the Holland River after drowning for the third time." This extract from an eastern paper showed the difficulty in dispelling the old tradition or legend, says the Port Arthur News-Chronicle. There is no basis of fact for the assumption that drowning persons always sink three times. They may sink only once, or if they sink twice or three times to rise again, because of their struggles, they may do so four or more times. It all depends on the circumstances.

An Interesting Test

Shows Men Tend To Lose Hearing Sooner Than Women

One person in seven has defective hearing, a preliminary analysis of more than three-quarters of a million individual tests by the Bell Telephone Laboratories revealed.

Hearing becomes less acute with age and men tend to become hard of hearing sooner than women, the tests also show.

The higher tones, are lost first, but these are the ones not used in conversation. One person in twenty-five has trouble hearing speeches and one in 125 finds ordinary conversation difficult to follow.

The tests show that there is no difference between tests taken in the morning and those taken at night. Laboratory scientists were a little surprised at this fact, because it indicates fatigue does not dull hearing.

Already more than 500,000 have taken the tests in New York and more than 250,000 in San Francisco.

During the test, a person listens with a telephone receiver to scientifically adjusted tones of various pitches that grow fainter until the point is reached where the listener can no longer hear them.

Each listener makes a record of his hearing by writing numbers on a specially prepared form. An attendant then puts a check on the form that indicates age-group, sex and race and runs it through a machine that automatically photographs it.

Fickle Appetite

South African Eats Glass And Safety Razor Blades

A Durban, South Africa, tearoom recently entertained a "human ostrich."

He was J. Coetzee, of Christiania, Transvaal. Mr. Coetzee walked into the tearoom and asked for tea and sandwiches. When he was served with these he asked for glass. The proprietor thought he was mad, but gave him some old electric light bulb.

Mr. Coetzee broke these up and ate them. He washed the glass down with sandwiches and tea. He then had some more glass and a safety razor blade. He finished his tea by bending an eight-inch nail between his teeth. He claimed that this was good exercise for the jaws.

He said he had been eating glass since he was three, yet had never incurred any trouble. When he was 13 he received a thrashing from his mother for eating all the tumblers in the house.

Cannot Be Explained

Unless Taken For Stroll Chinese Canary Will Not Sing

"It is an unexplained but undeniable fact that the Chinese canary—that appears no different to others of the breed—refuses to sing unless taken for its evening stroll," declares Walter B. Harris, former London Times' correspondent. In the public places of Peking can be seen every afternoon and evening, a number of men, mostly of good condition, parading their canaries in carefully shrouded cages.

It might be thought that the fact that the cages are covered and the bird unable to enjoy the scene around, would act as a deterrent to the songster, but no. Perhaps it is the gentle soothing slow swing of the owner's walk, or gratitude for the trouble he is taking. Whatever the cause, the bird, silent during the promenade, will repay his master in melody at home."

Gift From Officers

Silver Rose Bowl Presented To Lady Patricia Ramsay

Colonel Hamilton Gault presented Lady Patricia Ramsay with a silver rose bowl on behalf of past and present officers of the Princess Pats (the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry), on the 20th anniversary of formation of the regiment.

Colonel Gault, then of Montreal and now residing in England, raised and equipped the famous regiment in the first few days of the Great War. It was named after Princess Patricia, who at that time was living at Rideau Hall, Ottawa, where her father, the Duke of Connaught, was governor-general.

Just His Bad Luck

"The almonds of life come to those who have no teeth," says an old adage, and A. E. Maundrell of Mount Forest, Ont., has evidence to prove it. At a draw held in conjunction with the recent carnival, Mr. Maundrell won a permanent wave. But the days when he might have appreciated it are gone, perhaps forever. He is bald.

Letters Were Mixed

But Man Won Wife Instead Of Shotgun Ho Ordered

Twenty-five years ago Mr. Bachum sat down to write a couple of letters. One was a message to his sweetheart. The other was an order for a 12-gauge shotgun. Before long, he received a reply to the love note from the Chicago mail order house where he had intended to buy the shotgun. He liked the letter from the girl clerk who wrote the reply, so he answered her. That started a regular correspondence.

Finally Bachum wrote to Chicago, visited the mail order house, and met the girl. They have now celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on a farm near Weatherford, Okla.

In all those 25 years Mr. Bachum has heard nothing more about the order for the shotgun.

Observes Old Customs

Presbyterian Church In Ontario Town Sticks To Ancient Rules

A Presbyterian church congregation in South Kinloss, Bruce county, Ont., are strictly preserving the ancient Scottish ways of worship.

A mile north of Lucknow, situated on a hill, is a white brick church, where no organ has ever sounded and no hymns have ever been sung. Only psalms and other words of scripture are sung. John Macdonald, Sandy to his friends, has been rector of Kinloss church for 58 years and says he is the only man performing this church duty in Canada. He is 73.

Sandy still works in the fields and recalls it was back in 1851, when he was a boy of 15, the congregation needed a minister, which he explained was the rule in all Presbyterian churches back in Scotland, leading the song services.

In 1855, when the Scots arrived in South Kinloss, it was with the agreement the old customs and rules of the Scottish Presbyterians would be retained.

Rev. G. M. Young is minister and in the cemetery nearby is a monument, believed to be the only one in Ontario made of iron. It is to the memory of Rev. Alexander MacKenzie, who died Nov. 13, 1894, aged 75.

The church is supported by 45 Scotch families.

Men Under Arms

Number Of Soldiers In Europe Estimated To Be Eight And A Half Million

Europe's men under arms, exclusive of naval and air forces, were estimated at 8,500,000 by a military writer for Reuters News Agency.

The writer concluded that there appeared to be a "fairly even balance" at the moment between the land forces of the Rome-Berlin axis and the British-French front and associated powers.

The breakdown of the estimates: France, 1,000,000; Britain, 600,000; Poland, 500,000; Turkey, 300,000; Roumania 274,000; and Greece, 200,000; total, 2,875,000.

The Rome-Berlin axis: Italy, 950,000; Germany, 1,750,000; total 2,700,000; and 2,900,000 if 200,000 is added for Hungary.

Segregated were figures of 150,000 for Spain and 300,000 for Yugoslavia.

In still another bystander or neutral category were 400,000 for Bulgaria, Belgium, the Baltic states, The Netherlands, Portugal and Switzerland.

The review concluded:

"The largest combat weight is natural-born Russia, whose 2,000,000 men would give a marked predominance to any group with which they made common cause."

Attend Yearly Service

The Cherry Grove Lutheran church near Salisbury, North Carolina, is 65 years old, yet it has only two members. It is dusted and used but one Sunday each year. On that day, the review continues, former members attend a service to renew old ties.

Man Took Lost Article To Police After 25 Years

Jesse Wallace of London walked into the police station at Southampton, England, and handed a pair of old-fashioned, gold-rimmed spectacles to the desk sergeant, explaining he had found them 25 years ago.

"I was down here on my honeymoon and the matter slipped my mind until I got home," he said.

Wallace then planned to turn them over to police on his next visit. This was it.

COMMISSION DID NOT FAVOR THE PALESTINE PLAN

Genoa.—The League of Nations mandate commission withheld approval of Great Britain's plan to make Palestine an independent Arab-Jewish state.

The commission's report was considered a first-round victory for the World Zionist congress here, in its fight for a Jewish national home in the Holy Land.

Reporting to the League of Nations council, the seven members of the mandate commission agreed unanimously the new British policy put forth in the May 17 white paper was a complete reversal of the usual interpretation of the British mandate.

Four of the seven said flatly they could not sanction such a change in policy involving limiting Jewish immigration to the Holy Land.

The other three, however, declared they considered the change justified by the Palestine situation.

Because of this split, the commission passed to the League council meeting next month the decision to approve or disapprove of the plan.

The three who supported the British position were a Briton, a Frenchman and a Portuguese.

The four commissioners against it were nationals of Switzerland, Belgium, Norway and The Netherlands.

The members serve as individuals and not as representatives of their countries. British administrators Palestine under a League mandate and the League must sanction any change in its terms.

London—Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald disclosed he would go before the League of Nations council in Geneva next month to seek approval for the British Palestine plan which the permanent commission refused to approve.

Government circles indicated not greatly disturbed over the commission's refusal although it was admitted that was the first time there had been such a divided opinion on any major question.

Other quarters indicated approval of the policy requires unanimous consent of the League council and that, judging by the way the mandates commission reacted, this might be difficult to achieve.

Will Exchange Programs

More Co-operation In Radio Work Between Canada And Britain

New York.—A "new co-operation" between the Canadian and British broadcasting corporations was announced by Major W. E. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the CBC, on his arrival here from London.

As a result of the "very favorable publicity" Canada received in the United Kingdom through the royal visit, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will send an increasing number of radio programs of "a national character" to British wireless listeners, Major Murray said.

Major Murray, who arrived aboard Pan-American's Dixie Clipper from an extended visit in Great Britain where he conferred with British Broadcasting Company officials, said the BBC will reciprocate with a series of programs specially designed for Canadian interest. These programs, of various character, will start in September.

"This marks the beginning of a new co-operation between Canadian and British broadcasting systems," said Major Murray.

Lived Alone On Island

Boy Ten Years Old Found By Captain Of Cruiser

Guayaquil, Ecuador.—The commander of the Ecuadorian cruiser President Alfaro managed here to find a 10-year-old boy living alone on one of the lonely Galapagos islands off the coast of Ecuador.

The boy's name was given as Jose Perez. The captain said the youngster told him he came to the islands three years ago with a family, but ran away into the interior because of ill treatment.

He had been living on seaweed, plants and roots. He will return to Guayaquil on the cruiser.

Was Not Artistic

London.—A charcoal drawing of the Duke of Windsor as Prince of Wales, left to the Tate gallery by Sir Philip Sassoon, has been rejected on artistic grounds. It was drawn by John Sargent. Dr. John Rothenstein, director, said the charcoal drawing was rejected "after consideration of the picture purely on its merits as a portrait."

Wants Polish Corridor

Newspapers Insist Danzig Alone Will Not Satisfy Germany

Berlin.—Germany has put finishing touches to "preparedness" measures which may go into history as the most stupendous of their kind.

From the Tatra mountains in Slovakia to the Baltic, the German has been placed on war footing and can be called into action without the formality of mobilization, army head-quarters and other field, should their supreme commander, Fuehrer Hitler, will it.

And the führer now apparently wants not only just return of the free city of Danzig but the physical junction of East Prussia to Germany proper.

The newspapers, as if at the pressing of a button, suddenly raised the ante for appeasement by insisting with one accord, Danzig alone will not satisfy German pride and prestige. Pomorze, the so-called Polish corridor, it is now openly stated, is also at issue.

If these pressure tactics should not produce an inclination to give Hitler what he demands, he may be compelled to insist upon two events to tell the German people of the world in person his demands.

These two events are the 25th anniversary of the battle of Tannenberg on Aug. 27 and the annual Nuremberg party congress Sept. 2-14.

Boy Wins Rifle Match

Took First Prize In Competition With 250 Other Marksmen

Coonught Rifles Range, South Ontario.—Competing for the first time, James Boa, Jr., 17-year-old Toronto shot, won the Macdonald Brier match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association annual meet. He took first prize of $100 and the D.C.R.A. silver medal.

He posted 122, three short of possible, to take the match on some 250 other marksmen, including his father, Lieut. James Boa, of Toronto, veteran sniper and revolver shot.

Lieut. Boa also fired a possible at the 300-yard range and a 72 at 500 yards. He was a member of the Canadian team which competed against a team of British Imperial cadets in the Michael Faraday match here last year.

Lieut. Boa and R.Q.M.S. J. E. Bestock of Wimbley, had scores of 121 but second place went to the Manitoba riflemen for his score of 72 at the longer range. Lieut. Boa had a 71 at the 600 yards. At the shorter range Boa had a possible and Bestock a 70.

Another Ontario marksman, Private D. H. Gibson, of London, won the Life Members' match when he fired a 48, two short of possible, the 250-yard range.

Supreme Court Decision

Recent Ruling Says Farm Act Applies To Corporations

Saskatoon.—Rulings by the Manitoba and Saskatchewan authorities that a corporation does not qualify as a "farmer" under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, and therefore was not entitled to benefits under this act were nullified by a recent decision of the supreme court of Canada, according to the Canada law reports which arrived in Saskatoon.

The Saskatchewan board of review and the Manitoba court of appeal hitherto ruled that a farmer who transferred his affairs to a limited company lost the right to apply for benefits of the act. In brief, these bodies decreed that a corporation was not a "farmer".

By the decision of the supreme court of Canada the definition of "farmer" under the act was extended so that a corporation may be a "farmer".

The supreme court ruled in an appeal for a decision of Manitoba appealed court that the Barlow Mutual Corporation might apply to have its debts adjusted under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act.

New Air Record

Intres, France.—Captain Maurice Roast, noted French aviator, broke the international speed record over a 10,000 kilometre closed course with an average speed of 211.621 kilometres (193,628 miles) an hour. The previous record, established by Italian army fliers on Aug. 1 was 236,970 kilometres (147.15) miles an hour.

Celebration For Hitler

Berchtesgaden.—Chancellor Hitler celebrated on Aug. 16 the 25th anniversary of his entry into the German army as a Great War volunteer. Some of his old comrades-in-arms as well as delegations from the army came to the Obersalzberg, Hitler's Bavarian mountain retreat, to felicitate him.

ECONOMIC HELP FOR GERMANY IF PEACE IS ASSURED

Washington.—Ready for the day when or if Germany is inclined toward permanent "appeasement," the United States government holds various economic gadgets designed to help Chancellor Hitler obtain, through peaceful means, part of what he might otherwise seek through war.

As reports come from Europe indicating new efforts at peaceful settlement in the face of another crisis, information on what Washington has in mind toward that end becomes more concrete.

When President Roosevelt sent his last appeal for peace to Hitler he stated:

"The government of the United States would be prepared to take part in discussions looking towards the most practical manner of opening up avenues of international trade to the end that every nation of the earth may be enabled to buy and sell on equal terms in the world market as well as to possess assurance of obtaining the materials and products of peaceful economic life."

What had he in mind to offer if Hitler had answered "Yes"? A response from a usually reliable source is:

Credits, probably through the export-import bank, to enable Germany, despite her depleted foreign exchange, to buy abroad; access to American surplus commodities such as wheat and cotton both much needed in Germany, at subsidized—much lower than market—prices, and probably credit.

In exchange Germany would have to agree to progressive disarmament agreed to by other nations. The American credits would be available only, in the words of the president, for the "materials and products of peaceful economic life." The credits would be advanced on the instalment plan, ready to be cut off any time Germany did not live up to the other conditions in the agreement.

At the same time Germany would be expected to take the first steps toward abolition of her closed economy and barter trade, in the direction of liberal commerce.

THREAT TO PRIVATE BUSINESS

The announcement of government entrance into various realms of private business is a source of conjecture to the public. Fire insurance, implement parts? What next? Almost any phase of private industry may find itself in competition with government zeal. The unfair feature of such ventures is that there is no equality of risk. If the government has lost in operation, it is the taxpayers of Alberta who will stand the loss. If the individual loses decisively in his business, he goes bankrupt. If the government should make a profit, this will disappear into the vague maw of general revenue, and past history does not present any reassuring picture of reduced taxation through increased revenue.

The government is in a very different position from the private competitor, whose business it is threatening. It can increase taxation to cover losses sustained by mistaken judgment. The legislators who commit the country to folly, do not personally risk, nor do they personally make good, even though their actions may jeopardize and actually ruin an important element of the taxpaying public.

It is a very debatable question whether the government is serving the best interests of itself or the public at large in entering fields of business already established in the province, in which there is now strong competition. Whether it be machinery, insurance, groceries, dry goods or motor service, the government draws a great part of its revenue out of these people. What is gained in the long run by wrecking their source of livelihood? The margin of profit in most businesses is modest, and there is little prospect that government stores would do much better by the consumer. But in the experimentation, they would have a disrupting effect, which would be widespread in its feeling of insecurity.

At a time when unemployment is a most serious issue, it seems a mistake for the government to make and move which threatens the earnings of people who are already in business, are self-supporting, and are employers of labor. If the government schemes fail, the very people against whom it has compete will be obliged to join with others in foot the bill.

It would seem more advisable to concentrate on building up a sense of security in the business world of Alberta; to remove little irritations and regulations which discourage employment, and to encourage rather than hamper the initiative and confidence of the business life of the province.—High River Times.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Alberta, Aug. 21.—Decision as to when there will be a general election in Alberta rests in the final analysis with Herr Adolf Hitler. Premier Aberhart is waiting for Prime Minister King to declare an election date for the Dominion, and in his turn Mr. King is awaiting Hitler's decision as to whether there shall be war or peace in Europe. And thus, Herr Hitler controls the hands of Herr Aberhart in Alberta when it comes to an election! Mr. King holds the balance of power between them, apparently.

During last week the Alberta government issued its quarterly financial statement for the period ending June 30th last. The statement is simply and wholly a cash statement and, therefore, cannot give any real indication as to what the trend of the government's financial operations and position is; the statement points out that the funded and unfunded debt has been reduced by $5,110,038 since March 31, the money for this purpose was made available by the final payment of $5,580,000 on the sale of the Northern Alberta Railway under an agreement made by the U.F.A. government almost ten years ago. So that in reality the credit for this goes to the previous government.

If the government had observed the law of the Dominion and had met the interest payments on its bonds honestly in accordance with the terms under which the province's debt was contracted, the provincial treasury would be very far from balancing its revenue with expenditures. It has continued withholding payment of fifty per cent of the interest due on its bonds despite the fact that the provincial law under which this is done was declared by the courts to be unconstitutional.

In an effort to induce financial companies such as the mortgage corporations to advance money for home building in Alberta, the provincial government through its financial mouthpiece, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, announced that legislation will be passed to protect private and public loans advanced by either individuals or companies for building homes in the province under the Dominion housing scheme.

At Calgary during the past week officials of the loan companies and mortgage companies declared they were not interested in such legislation now. The lack of interest is declared due to the record of the government during the past four years in ignoring its obligations. Financial institutions cannot be expected to depend on the word of a government for its protection, when the government has repeatedly defied federal authority and ignored its own obligations.

It becomes clearer every day that Premier William Aberhart is not regarded with confidence in quarters where the prosperity of the realm lies.

PRAYERS ACROSS THE SEA

Purely a "good-will builder," a group of motion picture theatres under one ownership in Minnesota has launched a "Go-to-Church" idea with short films urging patrons to attend Sunday services.

This innovation is more than a gesture, for the "trailers" include a salient truth. Each points out that if more consideration were given to religion, much of the turmoil in Europe would be eliminated. The fact that thinking and behavior on the American side of the Atlantic can have a definite influence abroad should become more widely understood.—Christian Science Monitor.

Announcement was made in Vancouver on Friday last by President S. J. Hungerford that Philip G. Johnson, vice-president in charge of Trans-Canada Airways operations, would retire on September 1st, to be succeeded by D. B. Colyer, chief technical adviser.

PROSPECT FOR A SCENIC HIGHWAY

(T. B. Windross)

News that a survey party is surveying a road from Crows Nest Lake to Morleyville, is creating a stir in this part of the country. There is little information available, except that such a party is at work and surveyors are encamped near Willow Creek. But there is interest in the fact that the possibilities of such a highway are being considered.

It is presumed that the road will skirt the base of the mountainous country, approximately forty miles or so from the Number 1 highway. It will connect the Crows' Nest road with the Calgary-Banff road, and will carry the traveller through more than 100 miles of country which will rival mountain scenery. To the east will be rolling ranch lands; to the west, the rugged foothills, broken by deep green valleys. Along the route are the numerous little foothill streams which run along to feed the rivers of the plains. Tourists who find the mountain scenery of the national parks somewhat overpowering and oppressive will take unmeasured joy in such a road. They will be in the shadow of the mountains, but also in full view of the rolling open country. It is said that the construction would offer few engineering difficulties, and that the maintenance would not be unduly expensive.

That is, of course, if the road is ever built! There have been many surveys made, and doubtless forgotten, along these foothills. Thirty years or more ago, when railroads were in their prime, there were ever-recurring rumors of railways through the foothills, tapping the areas of anthracite deposits, and giving outlet to the coal wealth along the eastern slope of the Rockies. But no railroad was ever built, and it may still be many a long year before a highway is built, it all depends on the degree of tourist consciousness on the part of those who have the power to spend the money. Those who realize the untouched potentialities of the foothill country as a tourist attraction, have often envisioned such a road.

There may, however, be no similar enthusiasm in the foothills, where isolation and privacy are valued. It would be a queer experience for some of our remote and peaceful ranches to be plunged into the thick of gas stations, hot dog stands, tourist cabins, and a rush of traffic. The very fact that some of our most beautiful country is unattainable to the rank amateur of sightseers, is a satisfaction to many people. If a foothill highway is built, it will be at a cost, sentimental and practical, to a number of Albertans.

But it won't happen tomorrow, no next day, even though a survey is being made.—High River Times.

NEWSPAPER AGAIN SCORES

Not long ago a business man was standing in the lobby of the local post office, says the Listowel Banner. He noticed a man remove his mail from his box and glance through it. Without taking half a look at a brightly colored circular he tossed it unopened into the large waste basket. We are certain that he devoted no time to even ascertain what the contents of the circular sought to bring to his attention. We are doubtful if he even knew what company was sending him the advertising.

Another local business man noticed the fate of the brightly-colored circular and the two men got talking about the affair. They investigated the waste basket and found several of the circulars. The curious part of the whole thing was that not one of them had been opened. It cost money to print them and it cost money to postage to mail them to the local boxholders, but yet their message did not strike home.

The odd part of the whole transaction was the fact that the men, in their search, did not find a single newspaper. Not one. You can draw your own conclusions.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE AND PRINTING PRESSES

Has a strawberry shortcake festival ever been held before, in Canada, in a printing office amid the type and usual equipment? This was done on a recent Saturday afternoon, when the enterprising Ladies' Aid of Sangudo United church accepted the very kind offer of Mr. J. D. Skinner of the use of his La Ste. Anne Chronicle establishment for this purpose.

The streamers and general decoration scheme were in the colors of Alberta—University—green and gold—while the table decorations were carvings.

The clean and attractive premises were the rendezvous of many patrons, who pronounced the event an unequalled success.

Much interest was manifested in the workshop of the Chronicle. The genial editor and publisher explained the use of the curious equipment that lay around undisguised.

Editor Skinner paid Blairmore a brief visit some six or seven years ago.

CZECHS ESTABLISH BUSINESS IN CANADA

Following rather a lengthy wait, while the Dominion government considered negotiations, the Bata Shoe Company, of Czechoslovakia, has finally obtained permission to erect a modern shoe factory in Canada.

They plan to set up operation in Frankford, Ontario, and will probably employ about 1800 men, one third of which will be engaged in the actual production of shoes, the others working in research and engineering laboratories, which is one of the company's big features, for only by study do they keep their processes and techniques up to date.

Present sale of Bata shoes in Canada is about 200,000, and it is understood they plan to manufacture nearly 1,800,000 pairs annually and market twice as many in the Dominion.

Following their usual custom, the company will erect a modern village at Frankford, including houses, theatre, hospital, churches, other necessary buildings, swimming pool and sports field. Only about 800 key men will be brought from Czechoslovakia, the other employees being chosen from the district around their mill. This insures a return of prosperity for the inhabitants of Frankford, at present a town of 850, with nearly one quarter of them on relief.

BILLY'S FAREWELL PARTY

'Twas the eve of Billy's leaving for Vancouver's sunny clime,
The bosses had all gathered to stage
a farewell "time."
With dignified demeanor they met in the Masonic Hall,
And applauded Chairman Adlam when he started the rolling ball.
At first they started in, by gosh, the old days to discuss,
When men were men and coal was coal, and no liquidation fuss.
And "Prospects" were a leadpipe cinch to tap new seams of treasure,
When Bill and Dave had shown the way by survey and by measure.
Ere long it was apparent that Mr.
Dewar's Highland tea
Was going to turn the evening into an all-round jamboree.
Jack Mackie voiced their feelings with a throaty Gaelic roar!

"Roll out that damn piano, I want to sweep the floor!"
"That's right," they chorused together,
"let's have a bit of swing."
Sob Bam, he grabbed the keyboard and murdered the hattered thing;
Danny brought out his windjammer,
and Charlie his violin.
The music was delightful, but the dancing was a sin,
With whoops of joy they whirled around,

Some through the air, and some on the ground;
Faster and faster the music went,
The pit boss on knees, his energy spent.
The night's biggest thrill almost wrecked the hall,
When Highland Jack crashed into the wall.
This valiant effort took the crowd by surprise;

But, alas, it blacked one of Highland Jack's eyes.
Around about midnight the "Stags"
cried "Enough!"
"This jam session," said Mackie, "is getting too rough."

So arm in arm they sang the song of the great Bonnie Fife.

No nobler noise was ever heard, no air, before or since.

So with this tuneful gesture the farewell party ended.

And with staggered steps the happy lads the homeward trail they wended.

But the evening was not over for Bob,
or else for Johnny Will;

"They had to navigate the rocky road up Crofton's Hill.

Bob, in his cups, reverted to youth and yore of Army days,

Swears he'll kick hell out of Hitler,
'less that half pint mends his ways.

At the foot of the hill they manœuvred,
Black Watch and Lane Fusiliers,

Though each to himself was thinking,
"if only Mother was here."

With martial tread and caution they accomplished that terrible climb, Though the odds against the miracle were ten dollars to a dime.

Right to the top they plodded, and to celebrate thefeat,

They staggered into Bobby's and swallows one straight and neat,
Now Bob was home and contented, and ready to sleep like a log—

John Will crept out again, just like a ship in a fog.

At a knot and a half an hour he zigzagged all o'er the place;

He squeezed thru a narrow archway to meet Bobby's dog face to face.

"Now where in hell am I," thought
John Will, with a most puzzled
frown,

"For the amount of work I've been doing I should have got through town."

Just then on the scene arrived Bobby,
to rescue a pal no doubt—

"How in hell did ye get there lad?"

"I don't know, but get me out!"

Well, John Will, he got new bearings, and finally got home.

Where with solemn deliberation swore no more to roam.

Now, Billy's in Vancouver, and there he plans to stay.

But a night they'll ever remember was the night he went away.

Mass production of piglets is the achievement of a Yorkshire sow owned forth what appears to be a recordshattering total of 35 pigs in the amazing short time of five months and one day. On March 10th she gave birth to 19, and on August 10th another 16. Of the first litter 11 lived, and of the last lot 12.

citations is "Heaven and earth shall pass away" (Mark 13:31). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, is "When the final physical and moral effects of Christian Science are fully apprehended, the conflict between truth and error, understanding and belief, science and material sense, foreshadowed by the prophets and inaugurated by Jesus, will cease, and spiritual harmony reign" (p. 288).

Puzzled Eskimos

Interested in Air-Conditioning System Of Vice-Regal Train

Just prior to the departure of the vice-regal train from Churchill, which carried Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir south after a short visit to this port, the train was given a close inspection by a party of Eskimos. Of particular interest to them was the work of the Canadian National car service men filling the ice bunkers of the air-conditioning equipment.

The party of Eskimos was taken through the train and when they emerged with perspiration pouring down their faces, hidden by the heavy parkas, they clattered to one another excitedly as each piece of ice was safely stored away.

They laughed loudly and pointed at the ice and were completely puzzled. The white man's ways were beyond their understanding; to heat the car on the inside and put ice into it in large quantities on the outside was just too much. The white man sure must be all mixed up. Why did he not stop heating the moving igloos or stop putting ice into them, to do them both did not make sense in the Eskimo's way of reasoning.

They stood around for hours till the work was completed and finally went back to their beds. During the long winter nights they will tell their relatives and friends of the funny ways of the white man they saw with the moving igloos.

Not A General Failure.

Western Crop Is Much Better Than In Other Years

There will be no 400,000,000 bushel wheat crop in the West. But we can get along nicely if we have only 300,000,000 bushels. Every part of the West has some grain. There are no large areas with a general failure as there has been for several years past. There is seed and feed and grain to sell in this year's crop.

In the pessimism which may be engendered over the disappearance of the bumper yields we had expected at the end of June rains, let us not take too gloomy a view of it. We are a lot better off than we have been in other years in the West—Lethbridge Herald.

Standard of Living High

People in Canada More Favoured Than in Other Lands

Percy A. Francis, Poultry Commissioner of Great Britain, while addressing a service club in connection with his visit to the World Poultry Congress in Cleveland, made some remarks that should make the American and Canadian people feel that their "lot has been cast in pleasant places," and that they possess "a goodly heritage."

There has been a tremendous amount of complaint against the protracted depression on this continent, but Mr. Francis confessed that he saw little of it in his journeys to America. "It's hard for me to believe," he said, "that you are going through a depression. You are a land of opportunity with a lot of the luxuries that were considered commonplace by the American people were largely unavailable in our own country."

Of course the Commissioner was speaking on a comparative basis, and as a casual observer, with reference to European countries and to Britain. He did not see the idle factories and the millions of unemployed that were to be found all over the United States. He was speaking of the bright side as it appeared to a traveller. On the same basis he could have spoken very favorably of Canada, and if he had made the journey with the King and Queen across the country, he would have seen the same aspect of happiness and prosperity with the surface he would have found a very large percentage of the population unemployed through the curtailment of industry and business. However, perhaps Canadians and Americans do not sufficiently count their many blessings. If they did they might conclude that, notwithstanding all the disadvantages of the depression, they possess a high standard of living with innumerable conveniences and comforts that are not found in less favored lands.—Brantford Expositor.

Carved Miniature Home

Clock Made By Swedish Farmer Recalls 172-Year-Old Romance

Thinking of the romance when the cowboys still made a love that was lost 172 years ago.

Michael Horvath of Miami, Fla., the owner, says the clock was carved by Gustav Ellshoff, a Swedish farmer who lived near Stockholm. While engaged to be married, Ellshoff was stricken with blood poisoning. Both his legs were amputated.

As he lay in bed, Ellshoff carved an intricate detail a three-story miniature home. It was his Taí Mahal. Into it he carved all the things he had hoped to give to the girl his affection prevented him from marrying.

The clock has 13 glass windows and two glass doors. A grape vine encircles a porch. Clusters of tiny grapes hang from the vine. There is a climbing tree under a porch. Cut flowers are under the porch. Two figures—a man and a girl—emerge from the door when the clock strikes the hour. Then tiny chimes play one of four love songs.

The clock was completed in 1767.

Took Case Instead

Tabby Fish, Indian woman farmer who says she is 102 years old, won first prize as "best dressed Indian" in a stampede parade at Merritt, B.C. The horse was a 50-foot length of garden hose, but she took cash instead. The only water supply on her farm is from wells and irrigation ditches.

An Impressive Story

What Parliament Of Britain Has Done Since Last September

After a nine-month session, the British Parliament prorogued and here is the story of what it did:

Nearly 3,500 millions were earmarked for this year's rearmament costs.

Pledges of military assistance were given to Poland, Rumania, Greece and Turkey.

Conscription was introduced by the calling up of 200,000 men each year.

The territorial army was doubled to a strength of $400,000 men.

Steps were taken by which Britain will have 1,000,000 men under arms this fall, with every anti-air raid battery, coastal gun and searchlight manned 24 hours a day.

A field force of 19 divisions was formed as the nucleus of an expeditionary force for fighting on the continent.

A Ministry of Supply was created to supervise annual purchases of 900 millions of war supplies and equipment.

It is an impressive story. People sometimes ask regarding Munich. Ask why Chamberlain did not fight last September. One answer is in what has been done since Munich. If a nation has to fight—fight for its life—it had better choose its ground; and its weapons.—Ottawa Journal.

Canary As Witness

Bird That Objected To The Wife Beating Her Husband

"Birds and animals have on more than one occasion been brought into court as witnesses," said LanceLOT Robson, telling some animal stories.

"A canary was brought into court at Strasbourg in 1928. A man was suing for separation from his wife, on the ground that she beat him. The man told the judge that the only witness he could produce was a canary, and a decisive one at that canary proved to be a lie. The husband declared that while his wife beat him, the canary was nearly frantic in his endeavor to get out of the cage to help him."

"The judge ordered the canary to be brought into court and told the wife to pretend to strike her husband. The canary nearly mad with frenzy, flying against the bars, until a good deal of his plumage lay at the bottom of the cage, and the bird was in a state of exhaustion.

The wife, so overcome by this evidence of the bird's burst into tears and confessed, and the judge gave his decision in favor of the husband's petition!"—London Listener.

The canary, however, was not the only witness to testify in this case.

"The canary was brought into court again, and the wife was found guilty."

UZZIAH: A KING WHO FORGOT GOD

Golden text: Every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled; but he that humbleth himself shall be exalted. Luke 18:14.

Lesson: II. Chronicles.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 112:1-7.

Explanations And Comments

Uzziah, High Priest, 2 Chronicles 26:1-5. When sixteen years of age Uzziah succeeded his father Amariah upon the throne of Judah, and reigned for 52 years in Jerusalem. His father had been a priest, but Uzziah, during the greater part of his reign, and Uzziah followed in his father's steps. Under the helpful influence of Amariah, the priest, the young man set himself to God, and as long as he continued to do this, God made him to prosper.

Uzziah's Pride and Transgression. 2 Chronicles 26:16-18. When he strong, his heart was lifted up with pride.

Uzziah did evil and great presumptuous things. He entered the Holy Place of the Temple, entered only by the veil from the Holy of Holies, into which it was lawful only for priests to enter, indeed only for the High Priest. As an High Priest, and 80 principal priests followed and opposed the king. "It is not your right, O King, to offer incense before the Lord, for that is the right of the priests who have been consecrated to the task. 'Go out of the sanctuary,' they sternly commanded.

Uzziah's Wrath and Punishment. 2 Chronicles 26:19-21. Then Uzziah was wroth—and what king would not be when thus ordered? He had no cause to be angry, for he was not doing any wrong, but he was only fulfilling his purpose of offering incense when leprosy broke out upon his forehead. Those of us who have had leprosy know how it feels to have to beggar and even run after one's car and trying to thrust their stumps of hands with, have some apprehension of the horrors of the disease in the temple. The priests thrust the king out quickly, for he was now "unclean," and he himself hastened to go.

The most dramatic feature of this episode, the sudden fit of leprosy in the king's forehead, without any spiritual antecedent. Men's anger and rage are often manifested in blighting their lives once for all with irredeemable moral leprosy. In the madness of passion they have broken bonds of love and duty, have abandoned them and committed themselves beyond recall to a power which may obtain a patent on their behalf.

Uzziah, the result of his life, Uzziah dwelt, a leper, in a separate house, while his son Jotham occupied the royal palace and governed as regent.

Canadian Legion Is Powerful Agency And Ready For Emergency

The Canadian Legion is a bigger and more powerful agency than ever before, Brigadier W. W. Foster of Vancouver, Dominion president, told delegates to the British Columbia command's 13th annual convention, which was held at Kamloops, B.C.

Noting that with consolidation of progress made in the past year, the Legion has grown steadily, Brigadier Foster said "this fact and the opportunity provided by the unity that now exists in Canada for even greater accomplishment, becomes a great responsibility for those, like yourselves, are its leaders."

England's Women Farmers

Number 15,000 And Every One Of Them Show A Profit

One out of every 20 farmers in Great Britain is a woman, and nearly all are successful.

This fact was revealed at the Royal Agricultural Society's centenary show at Windsor.

One of the 15,000 women whose farms showed a profit is Mrs. East Southdown, from Oxfordshire, who five years ago took over a wood-grown farm of 500 acres in Lincolnshire. She mechanized the farm and settled down to breed belted Galloway cattle, grow pedigree wheat and barley.

She still runs the farm.

An Irishman was standing at the rail of a ship, watching the gulls flying over the harbor.

"Nice flock of pigeons," he remarked.

"Those are gulls, my good man, said a fellow passenger.

"Well, gulls or boys, they're a nice flock of pigeons," answered the Irishman.

in the summer," laughed Alan, as the surprised clerk gripped their hands, searching the worn faces for signs of starvation that drove men in to the post-forts in early spring. "And you're not starved out boys?"

"Do we look it? We've come from the headwaters in fifteen days. That's why we look like carbou in fly time."

"What drove you off your trap-lines them?"

"De carcajou," explained Noel. "He got to our cache."

"Oh-ho! Wolverine, eh? And you came down on the crust before your grub gave out? Did you bring much fur, lads?" added the always business-like Scotchman.

"Better hunt than last year. I've got some black marten and fox that'll make your mouth water, Duncan. What's the news from outside?" asked Alan, casually, anxious to learn what the Indians of John McCord had told at East Main.

"Aye, lad, there's plenty of news," answered the clerk. "Some Indians came out at East Main in December with a pretty tale."

"What about? Starvation at Nichicun again?"

"It seems there ain't enough traders already on this coast. There's another one—in on the headwaters."

"What do you mean—a trader—on the headwaters?"

"He went in last summer by way of Rupert. He located somewhere beyond Nichicun, 'on these headwaters.'

"Did you hear that Noel?" demanded Alan of the Indian who lounged against the counter running his eyes over the trade-goods on the shelves while he listened intently to the conversation. "Duncan says there's a new trader in the headwaters; he'll take you there."

Alan's back stiffened. The blood leaped to his face at the insolence of the remark. "How d'you know what I'll do, Rivard?" he rasped.

"What—are you Cameron?" demanded the elder of the strangers, a powerfully built man of forty with pale blue eyes, closely set beneath dark, shaggy brows. The network of fine lines about the eyes and the deep-set face gave the impression of one who had lived hard. To the other man, the taller of the two, with light air and nondescript features, Alan gave but a fleeting glance. The older man evidently was the dominant personality.

A Blind Gold Miner

Sights for Ten Years Dulls And Blasts in Darkness

There's no light on his miner's cap. No sunshine seeps along his 600-foot shaft. James Newman drills and blasts in darkness—just as he has for 10 years.

Newman is sightless, blinded in a blasting mishap in 1929. He waited until his wounds healed, then back he went to his claim and his cabin in the Wasatch Mountains just east of Salt Lake City.

Now his mine runs 600 feet into the hillside. He tunneled every inch of it, drilling, blasting, mucking, rail laying and its cutting. The shaft is digging deep, he explained that way so he won't bump his head.

Newman can tell exactly where his drifts lead off from the main tunnel. Only one factor in his quest for "pay dirt" stumps him—he must depend on friends to describe rock that may contain ore.

He's taken out some gold, but the "strike"—that goal that leads all miners on—still eludes him.

Now 46, Newman, a bachelor, lives alone at his mine, going to town about every three months for supplies. Friends marvel at how deftly and quickly he finds his tools and fires his shots.

Strange Tribe

Try to Solve Mystery Of Early Settlers in British Columbia

The progress of prospectors in the Wasatch Lake area of central Vancouver Island is being watched by historians who are less interested in the discovery of gold than they are in a clue to the fate of British Columbia's first settlers.

The mystery is what became of a group of Chinese sent by the British 150 years ago to establish a colony at Nootka, on the west coast of the Island. The Chinese were seized by the Spaniards and according to Capt. John Meares, were put to work mining gold.

There is no official record of what happened to these early settlers but native legend says the Chinese withdrew to the interior of the Island after a few skirmishes with distrustful coast Indians. They are said to have taken native wives with them.

In the ensuing years there have been recurrent rumors of a strange tribe on Wasatch Lake which speaks the west coast dialect. Historians are hoping prospectors may uncover some trace of descendants of the original Chinese.

Drivers Cannot Take Chances On Going To Sleep

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart of Victoria, and the kind of people, whose wealth is a blessing to all their neighbors. Most of their lives have been devoted to the development of their famous gardens in Saanich and they have given their work freely to the world.

Every year tens of thousands of people wander about the sunken garden which was once a barren quarry, over the acres of lawns and rose beds, the rockeries, the water lily pools and the well-kept woods. The Butchart gardens have brought a large tourist industry to Vancouver Island—but more important, they have given happiness to countless people.

It is good, therefore, to know that Mr. and Mrs. Butchart have arranged that the beautiful things they have created with their money, their thought and labor, shall be preserved in perpetuity—Vancouver Sun.

Laws Against Eating

Old Regulations in Britain Curtailed Quantity and Class of Food

The recent Nazi view that overeating is a form of high treason calls the fact that in England not so many years ago, overeating, if high treason, was legally a crime.

Until July, 1856, it was technically unlawful for a man to have more than two courses at dinner and suppers, although upon specially festive occasions he might be permitted three. This statute of Edward III's sumptuary laws was not repealed until 1856.

In England severe sumptuary laws were enacted in the reigns of Edward II, Edward IV, and Henry VIII. For long a man dared not eat what he fancied. The poorer classes, for instance, were forbidden to eat certain foods and wheated bread. That was reserved for "the nobility"—the poor being permitted to eat only coarse bread made from peasemeal and other unattractive substances. Manchester Guardian.

Na Good For Souvenirs

New Type Hotel Towel Too Big To Carry Away

A Cleveland hotelman has invented a snitch-proof, wear-resistant bath towel and the towels will likely earn for him a place of honor on hoteliers' lists of fame.

Instead of a single-unit towel, as is usual, the new idea is to make the towel in sections so that worn areas may be replaced without discarding the entire piece. Better still, the towels are four feet wide and five feet long, and anyone who has ever packed a suitcase knows that, even with the generous capacity of modern luggage, 45 square feet of terry cloth is entirely too much to carry away for a souvenir.

It looks as if the ancient and "honorable" custom of town-collecting will have to disappear. It is a strange company, too. Citizens who would not even dream of lifting a towel from a store counter, thinking nothing of tucking in their suitcase an identical article, if it is hanging in a hotel bathroom. By repeated and frequent practice of a few daring souls, social conventions change, and perhaps for this reason much hotel linen has found its way into strangers' homes. The practice has become a standing joke and bears nothing of the stigma of petty crime.

So the giant towels will not only benefit the hotel's householding but also the community, a mile of smiling among its guests. Like a child apprentice to a burlap who grows too large to be of further use to his master, the hotel towel is taking on proportions that will ensure it undisturbed existence on its own shelf.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Here is the story of a desperate man. He wanted to hang himself, but the rope broke; he wanted to shoot himself, but the revolver would not go off; he wanted to drown himself, but somebody rescued him; he threw himself out of a window, but his fall was broken by an awning; then he had a bright idea. He got into a small boat, put up a British flag and went out into the Mediterranean. This time he was successful; his boat was blown to bits in an aerial bombardment.

The annual children's picnic and outing under the auspices of the local Community Sports Association was held at Crows' Nest Lake Wednesday afternoon. The occasion proved delightful for swimmers and bathers. Refreshments galore was handed out, including ice creams, soft drinks, hot dogs, coffee, etc. Last, but not least, was the dispensing of a gunny sack of peanuts, the kind gift of Mr. J. F. Smith, of the Cosmopolitan hotel. The committee in charge, under direction of Mr. S. McDowell, are to be commended for the very efficient manner in which the picnic was handled. Around two hundred kiddies with a few parents were in attendance.
